

The heatmap displays a 10x20 grid of data points. The color scale ranges from dark red (low value) to dark blue (high value). The distribution is highly variable, with some rows showing high values in the first few columns and others showing high values in the last few columns.

Aggregate Radius (μm)